

The Airl radio service that I listen to at 91.5 is a crucial part of our community. Although many struggle with the postive message content, many do find it as a resource for others and a reliable source personally. The youth are already struggling for identity in our community, and there is only one secular station that plays even "some" music that is relevant to their lives. The local broadcasting service used to cator to the needs of the young people, but has made a drastic change within the past years and has eliminated all such services. Airl and KLove are the only two stations that continue to provide service to the youth and younger people of the community. These stations must remain available. In addition, these two stations, and Airl in specific, provide POSITIVE music, which does a huge service to the community at large.
